VTA Overview 2020

Agency
The Santa Clara Valley Transportation Authority employs more than 2,000 people dedicated to working together to provide solutions that move Silicon Valley. Unique among transportation organizations in the San Francisco Bay Area, VTA is Santa Clara County’s authority for transit development and operations (light rail and bus), congestion management, transportation-related funding, highway design and construction, real estate and transit-oriented development, and bicycle and pedestrian planning. With partners on the local, state and federal levels, VTA works to innovate the way Silicon Valley moves and provide mobility solutions.

Priorities
The VTA Board of Directors, in conjunction with the General Manager and CEO, has established a list of 2020 priorities, which focus VTA’s efforts and guide planning and use of resources.

• Address Climate Change
  There is an urgent need to address climate change through transportation. Getting people out of gas-powered cars, into electric cars and onto public transit is an important way to do that. VTA will use funds to make transit options more attractive to increase ridership and reduce the impact of carbon emissions on our environment.

• Recruit Women for Non-traditional Transit Jobs
  VTA has been a leader in promoting women in transportation, but there is more to do, locally and nationally. VTA feels the responsibility to help women move into jobs the otherwise have not been encouraged to pursue, that will help them take care of their families with good benefits and solid futures.

• Sustain Operations
  For the first time in more than a decade, VTA made significant changes to its transit service plan, to serve more riders with more frequent service. Now, 90 per cent of our resources are focused on bus lines with the highest ridership that run every 15 minutes or better. Maintaining a strong public transportation service helps to meet the needs of the community as well as the environment.

• Form Stronger Partnerships
  To stay relevant, VTA must continue to build alliances at an accelerated rate with cities, the County, businesses, and regional transit partners. This means making changes to land use policies and accepting improvements like Bus Rapid Transit.
